Modesto Irrigation District General Manager Scott Furgerson announces retirement

Modesto Irrigation District's (MID) General Manager Scott Furgerson announced his retirement today after serving as the District's general manager for more than two years.

"MID is a top-notch organization with a dedicated workforce that continues to impress me daily, especially in these extraordinary and challenging times," said MID General Manager Scott Furgerson. "Therefore, it's with mixed emotions that I announce my retirement. The world's current events have definitely made me reflect on my priorities and following more than 40 years in the utilities' industry, I'm going to devote more time to my family."

Furgerson was hired as MID's General Manager in November 2017 following a 36-year career with Southern California Gas Company and San Diego Gas & Electric. At MID, he has led day-to-day operations and guided more than 400 employees. His last day with MID will be Tuesday, March 31.

"We appreciate Scott's leadership, service to MID and mentorship of our employees. He has empowered a stellar leadership team that will continue to ensure MID provides superior service to our customers and communities," said MID Board President Paul Campbell.

MID's Board of Directors will meet via phone in a closed session at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, March 31 to discuss next steps, including selection of an interim general manager. The meeting agenda will be available on MID's web site on Monday, March 30.
